

A MESSAGE FROM DR. MEOZ

In May of 2000, Southwest Cancer Clinic and Nevada Radiation Oncology Centers merged into one group, driven by the knowledge that in order to conquer one common enemy (cancer), we must unite. Cancer is not a disease that can be treated with a single modality. If a practice is to succeed in the fight against cancer, several specialists must converge on the patient. I am pleased to announce that effective September of 2002, the group has gone one step further by practicing under one united name - Comprehensive Cancer Centers of Nevada.

Raul Meoz, M.D., FACR

Comprehensive Cancer Centers of Nevada currently has ten full-time medical oncologists/hematologists and five full-time radiation oncologists practicing at five locations and all area hospitals. Two of our clinics are fully integrated cancer centers with medical oncology/hematology and radiation services. Comprehensive Cancer Centers of Nevada is proud to be the only practices in the Las Vegas Valley offering a stem cell transplantation program for adult patients. The physicians are very active in clinical research, as they believe research is vital to improving the modes of treatment for cancer.

The physicians of Comprehensive Cancer Centers of Nevada believe that a successful doctor/patient relationship begins with competence on the part of the physician and confidence on the part of the patient. Learning to understand each other only serves to strengthen the relationship, sealing the mutual and essential bond of trust.

As we continue our never-ending fight against cancer, we look forward to combining our efforts with yours to provide high quality, comprehensive oncology and hematology care to our mutual patients.

Sincerely,
